

FIGURE 3.17. Ridge regression shrinks the regression coefficients of the principal components, using shrinkage factors $d_j^2/(d_j^2 + \lambda)$ as in (3.47). Principal component regression truncates them. Shown are the shrinkage and truncation patterns corresponding to Figure 3.7, as a function of the principal component index.